Washington Caring for Many French Orphans

WASHINGTON,-Within the last year 100 war orphans of France have been "adopted" by Washingtonians, according to Miss Harriet Winslow, secretary-treasurer of the Fatherless Children of France, an organization formed for the relief of such children. Some of these children have been taken for two years, and some for longer periods.

Among the later subscribers to the organization are the Hvattsville high school, the Potomac school, Sidwell's Friends' school, Kendall Green Sunday school, the Misses Marets' French school, the Lafayette Memorial subscription, the Marie Louise millinery establishment and the Home club, the Current Events club of Hagerstown, Md., and St. Mary's school of Knoxville, Tena., also have "adopted" French children made fatherless by the war. At present there are in Washington four subscription clubs that have taken over part of the care of such children. These clubs consist of several members, The French government is paying half the amount of money required to rear and educate the children of men killed in the war, giving $36.50 a year,

The sum of $73 a year is needed for each child, and the people of France look to the United States to help by giving the other half. The country so far has responded well, but more efforts are necessary. The periods for which some children have been taken are about to expire, and every day there are hundreds more children made dependent upon the support of their government and the people of the United States. Washington especially has done well. In addition to the 160 children "adopted" more than $4,000 has been subscribed to a general fund.

He might turn up seven years later a graduate of Yale or Harvard, but meantime the government did not know what had become of him, maless it took the trouble to communicate with his university, and this required a good deal of time and was not always satisfactory. Any great catastrophe might happen to a man's family and the government would be weeks or months in locating him and getting the information to him. Under these circumstances, the need of some central means of communication with every Chinese student in America from New England to California was apparent, so the Chinese educational mission was established. but possessed by few-a beautiful head of hair. The Chinese government has been sending students to America to be eduented since 1875, but in the beginning, as has been said, there was no system. An occasional youth who showed strong indications of becoming a scholar was sent over, but in many cases was recalled before he had finished his course because the government was amposted as to his movements and could not understand what kept him so long. Then in 1900 came the Boxer uprising and China was compelled to pay the United States government an enormous indemnity, half of which was to be returned to China with the provision that it be used to educate Chinese students in America.

When we have our next hearing I hope to have representatives from all parts of the United States present to boost this plan. Clean, healthy sport means clean, healthy boys and girls, and I consider it a very essential part of our education. Medal-Winning Heroes Redfield's Search for

ECRETARY OF COMMERCE REDFIELD is gradually rounding up the heroes on the American S. S. Kroonland, who were voted medals by congress for rescuing 80 persons from the burning steamer Volturno in the North Atlantic in October, 1913. The men, mostly foreigners, scattered all over the globe, after congress had recognized their bravery, and for more than two years Secretary Redfield has been trying to get in touch with them. He has been successful in many instances, but still has 11 medals awaiting claimants.

The latest to be found were Franz von Hymen, now at the western front with the German army, who was located by the American consul general at Antwerp, Belgium, and J. A. Roll, who was discovered at Galveston, Tex The secretary is still seeking Heike M. P. Janssen, Gerard Franz Borrenberg. Franz Quednau, Henry Guelinck, Heinrich Schaub, Desire Auguste Coopman Ernst Benecke, Petrus Stobbelaar, Leon Coppens, Gustav Ebling and August Friedrich Reckzugel. The belief here is that these men, like Von Hymen, have been drawn into the European conflict, and it is feared some of them, at least, may have given their lives on battlefields without ever having known that the American congress had officially praised their heroism.

elopement to Waukegan, Ill., of Miss Hallie Mae Ure, daughter of a rich Milwankee family, and Arthur Brooks Mc-Clave, scion of a wealthy business man of Scranton, Pa.

Back of the story is a romance of a meeting at an eastern college function of the Milwaukee girl and the Scranton young man while Miss Ure was at an eastern school for girls.

The elopement escaped attention until the kidnaping took place. Then the whole story became known. The young husband had sent word to Scranton that he had presented his dad with a daughter, and a handsome present in the form of cash for a wedding trip was received. But the kidnaping spoiled things for a while, and police were put on the trail of the missing bridegroom before he was returned to his young wife.

STOLE KISS FROM A COW

As Result Bricklayer Will Spend Six Months in Workhouse for Misplaced Affection.

New York .- "That's the queerest case that ever came before me," commented Magistrate Cornell of the West side court, in sending John Murphy, a brickinger, to the workhouse for six months. Murphy was charged with kissing a cow, but because there was no law against such an act, the charge against Murphy was generalized under the loose head of disorderly conduct.

Detective Koerner, a railroad policeman, told the magistrate that the sentimental brickinger had crawled into a cattle pen, gazed long and earnestly into the liquid eyes of a Jersey cow and then kissed her. The cow resented his misplaced attentions, rose haughtily from her stall and galloped about the pen. Another cow proved more responsive to his homage. She licked his hand. The rest of the herd gathered around them. But just then the detective broke up the party. Murphy did not attempt to conceal the fact that he had been drinking heavily.
